SPLENDID TRIBUTE.

Just before going to press last week we received a letter from R. W. Powell notifying us of the death of George H. Day, who had died in his 94th year a few days before in the Home for Aged Men, Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Powell is so well known here and so highly esteemed by all who know him that his comments on the life of Mr. Day are especially worthy of being given to the public:

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 6, 1916.
My dear Mr. Bishop:
I am writing just to say that Mr. Day passed away yesterday and will be buried from Plymouth Church this afternoon. My wife and I went to see him last Wednesday and found him looking like an old saint, lying in his bed so peacefully and with his white beard and calm face. He spoke gratefully of the nice letter that you had sent him.

I have known Mr. Day or known about him since 1860, when my father first lived with him in Crossville. He was probably the most blameless man I have ever known, and he also always looked on the bright side of things, never speaking (nor I believe, never thinking) evil of anyone.

He was undoubtedly glad to go from here. Indeed, I KNOW that he was, and, whatever the future may be, I feel sure that he is where his gentle life will go on and with more happiness to him than he has had here for many years. You know that he was utterly alone in the world. He had not a single relative left—his wife, children, brothers and sisters, all having passed away years ago. Fortunately some friends in the church placed him a few years since in a very nice home where he had every comfort and need supplied that could be given to a man of his years and impaired faculties of hearing. Even with an ear trumpet it was hard to make him hear. Where he has gone he will not have those hindrances. The real soul of the man will exist more freely.

Yours truly,
Rufus W. Powell.

KEEPING UP TO THE MARK.

"Spring fever" is not always a joke. If you feel dull and sluggish, tired and worn out, suffer from backache or weak back, rheumatism, sore muscles, stiff joints or other indications of kidney trouble, it will pay you to investigate Foley Kidney Pills. They are highly recommended as prompt and efficient aids to health. For sale by Reed & Burnett.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

The Annual State Convention of the Tennessee Sunday School Association will be held in Lewisburg, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 6-7-8. Send names of delegates to R. H. Hayes, Lewisburg, chairman of entertainment committee.

Mr. John L. Alexander, of Chicago, Ill., Superintendent of the Secondary Division of the International Sunday School Association, who is recognized as the best expert on the teen-age work of the Sunday school, will represent the International Sunday School Association.

Mr. Leon C. Palmer, of Montgomery, Ala., General Secretary of the Alabama Sunday School Association, will also attend the said convention and have an important place on the program.

A number of the best workers of Tennessee have accepted places on our State Convention program. The program will be printed and distributed in a few days.

Pomona

A Word From Pomona Concerning Highways and By-ways.

A few days ago a Pomona citizen was walking along one of the sylvan paths for which Pomona is noted since the advent of our new highway. He was so satisfied with himself and the world generally that he was blissfully unconscious that he had reached the end of the straight and narrow path until all at once he stumbled and fell headlong into a gully. Something about the incident was so familiar that even before he managed to get his head and feet untangled and at the proper angle he knew his whereabouts. He was, of course, on the Memphis-to-Bristol highway; and then and there, with his feet still in the air, he offered up fervent thanks that the accident did not happen between November and May.

But then no one would be so foolishly as to venture out on the highway during those months.

If we are merely a pedestrian such accidents as the aforementioned are the only toll we have to pay for the privilege of traversing our pike. But if we are unfortunate enough to travel in a motor car, wagon, or buggy, especially after dark, we take our lives into our own hands.

No insurance company should be so careless as to insure the life of any person whose business or social duties call for travel along our highway.

Now, we are not knockers—far from it. For four years we have patiently hibernated half of the year, and then issued forth to boost during the other half. But now our patience is wearing thin, and before going into winter quarters again, we are going to have the satisfaction of delivering a good, sound kick or two in the most susceptible spot.

Every winter when the mud is waist deep we are told that it is "just too bad that the road stays so wet the ruts can't be filled up, and the road packed and made passable." Then when summer comes, and we beg for something to be done, we receive the following rebuke: "What you growling about now? The road's not muddy now, and you can drive around the gullies."

And we suaside without further ado. It is a circumstance similar to that of the darkey who was asked why he did not repair his roof through which a fair-sized hound could roam at will. He replied: "Well, yo see hit's kinder disaway—when hit's rainin' ah can't, an' when hit tam't rainin' hit don't need it."

We know that the excuse of Cumberland county is lack of funds; and we must admit that money is a very good and very necessary thing in the improvement of a country; and yet money alone can not uphold a community either materially or spiritually.

Why can not Cumberland county acquire some of that public spirit that has given even the remote parts of the west the name "Progressive," in the way of good roads and schools; and during the leisure time between laying-by and harvesting, get together, fill up the ruts of long standing on our highway, and by logging and other inexpensive means, try to redeem the honor of our county in her state highway?

Now, we want to see the Dixie highway put through, and all others that may come our way, but please note that we say "put through," and not just begun and then abandoned.

Better to have one good road completed through the county than a dozen begun and then left to remind one by their tragic appearance of "Paradise Lost," or "The Lost Cause," and to silently proclaim: "Abandon hope, all ye who enter here."

May 16. O. B.

SHE TOLD HER NEIGHBOR.

"I told a neighbor whose child had croup, about Foley's Honey and Tar," writes Mrs. Rehkap, 2404 Herman St., Covington, Ky. "When she gave it a couple of doses she was so pleased with the change she didn't know what to say." This reliable remedy helps coughs, colds croup and whooping cough. For sale by Reed & Burnett.

Thanks to the generosity of the owner of the Chronicle building, the office and work room from which the Chronicle goes forth on its weekly visits to its many hundred subscribers, has just been treated to a fresh coat of paint. B. L. Wheeler is the artist who wielded the brush with so much skill. Few, very few, offices in towns the size of Crossville can boast of so neat, clean and attractive a printing office as the Chronicle has. Come in when in town and enjoy a social chat with us and tell us the news of your neighborhood.

Monroe Hyder moved his family Friday to his farm four miles north of town.

For Sale—100 acres in the Third district, near Vandever, known as the Campbell farm; 100 acres in the First district, joining Chas. L. Deatherage's place near Horton; also one acre in the town of Crossville, opposite the High School dormitory. The three parcels for $650.00 cash or will sell each separately. This is just what the land is assessed for. If interested write me. I will be in Crossville, June 7th for a few days. Inquire Chronicle office. Chas. Braun, 31 Juneau Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

Commissioners C. G. Black and J. W. Dorton, accompanied by their engineer, C. E. Keyes, went over the eastern end of the Memphis-to-Bristol highway yesterday with the view to beginning work as soon as possible. Just how soon that will be they are unable to determine until further details are worked out.

Last week Bancroft Watson arrived home after an absence of four and a half years with the United States marine corps. During his service he visited many foreign countries and the vessel on which he was stationed was very much on the move.

Miss Annie McGuire went to Knoxville yesterday for medical treatment.

S. W. Potter was home Sunday from his logging work at Peavine.

TO TEACHERS:

The third and last examination of the State series will take place on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 30 and 31, in the County High School building, Crossville.

Miss Fay Bandy and brother, Master Lester Bandy, went to Cookeville last week to visit relatives and friends for several days.

Marked improvements have been going on within a year in the way of opening up farms north of town. J. H. Scheerer has purchased 108 acres and now has ten acres under cultivation. Prof. Frank March has purchased 100 acres in the same section and has about the same acreage under cultivation. Elbert Bibrey came here from Overton county a few months ago and purchased 100 acres in the same section and has ten acres under cultivation. All of the tracts were purchased from the Everhard estate. The lay of the land is most admirable for farms and indications are that these gentlemen are soon to have more neighbors. Orin Louper was here from Overton county the first of the week looking over land in the same section and may purchase a little later.

The engagement of Miss Blanche A. Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Ferguson, of Pikeville, to Mr. Wilson L. Tollett has been announced. The wedding will be solemnized in June. Miss Ferguson has many friends here who will wish her unbounded happiness. Mr. Ferguson established the popular hotel here known as the Nicholas House and conducted same for several years. During their residence here they won many friends who will join with them in wishing much happiness for their beautiful and attractive daughter.

There will be no preaching services at the Congregational church Sunday as Rev. Martin will be in Pleasant Hill attending exercises of the Academy.

Late copies of newspapers from Carlsbad, New Mexico, contain a letter addressed to Clarence Bell, manager of the Joyce-Fruit Mercantile Company, there, stating that John K. Joyce, president of the company, was killed while motoring alone in the hills of South Carolina. The end of a bridge over a small stream broke off and the machine turned turtle instantly killing Mr. Joyce. He had travelled much. Was on the ship that rescued the passengers of the Titanic. Was raised in West Tennessee. Had become a millionaire. The company of which he was president owns five or six very large stores that extend over about two hundred miles of territory and it also owns a bank.

The Art Circle will meet with Mrs. E. G. Tollett this week.

Rev. S. E. Knox and Calvin James were over from Lowenthal Monday.

F. K. Murdoc, Graham, Texas, and granddaughter arrived last week for a visit of a few days with his sister, mother of General J. R. Mitchell. He is here principally to visit his daughter in Overton county. He left this state for Texas 25 years ago and this is his first visit since leaving.

If you want score cards and pencils, paper napkins, nice writing paper cut to special size come to the Chronicle office for them.
